the riba job book is the royal institute of british architects long established and recognised standard reference for running architectural projects and administering construction contracts this new edition fully reflects the riba plan of work 2019 and contemporary working practice providing a systematic operational framework that can be applied to all types of building project and forms of procurement comprehensive in scope and logically laid out it embraces the theme of collaboration within the project team and addresses post occupancy evaluation modern methods of construction and sustainability among others setting out the actions to be undertaken throughout a project it examines step by step the key obligations of the architect or project lead and includes invaluable checklists in 2009 and 2010 the european court of justice and the european court of human rights underwent significant reforms to their respective judicial appointments processes though very different judicial institutions they adopted very similar and rather remarkable reforms each would now make use of an expert panel of judicial notables to vet the candidates proposed to sit in luxembourg or strasbourg once established these two vetting panels then followed with actions no less extraordinary they each immediately took to rejecting a sizable percentage of the judicial candidates proposed by the member state governments what had happened why would the member states of the european union and of the council of europe which had established judicial appointments processes that all but ensured themselves the unfettered power to designate their preferred judges to the european courts and who had zealously maintained and exercised that power over the course of some fifty years suddenly decide to undermine their own capacity to continue to do so this book sets out to solve this mystery its point of departure is that it would be a mistake to view the 2009 2010 establishment of the two vetting panels in isolation from other european judicial developments though these acts of institutional creation are certainly the most notable recent developments they actually represent but the crowning achievement of a process of european judicial appointments reform that has been running unremittingly since the 1990 s this longstanding and tenacious movement has actually triggered a broad set of interrelated debates and reforms encompassing not only judicial appointments per se but also a much wider set of issues including judicial independence judicial quality judicial councils the separation of powers judicial gender equity and more this book seeks to understand how women judges are situated as legal knowers on the high court of australia by asking whether a near equal gender balance on the high court has disrupted the court s historically masculinist gender regime this book examines how the high court s gender regime operates once there is more than one woman on the bench it explores the following questions how have the court's gender relations accommodated the presence women on the bench how have the women themselves accommodated those pre-existing gender relations how might legal judgments and reasoning change as a result of changing gender dynamics on the bench to develop answers to these and other questions the book pursues a methodology that conceptualises the high court as an institution with a particular gender regime shaped historically by the dominant gender order of the wider society the intersection between the gendered individuals and the gendered institution in which they operate produces and reproduces that institution's gender regime hence the enquiry is not so much asking have women judges made a difference but rather is asking how should we understand women judges relationship with the law a relationship that is shaped as much by the individual judge as by the institutional context in which they operate scholars legal practitioners and researchers interested in judicial reasoning gender diversity and the legal profession gender and politics will be interested in this book because it breaks new ground as a case study of a court's gender regime at a particular time the globalization of hate internationalizing hate crime is the first book to examine the impact of globalization on our understanding of hate speech and hate crime bringing together internationally acclaimed scholars with researchers policy makers and practitioners from across the world it critically scrutinises the concept of hate crime as a global phenomenon seeking to examine whether hate crime can or should be conceptualised within an international framework and if so how this might be achieved beginning with the global dynamics of hate the contributions analyse whether hate crime can be defined globally whether universal principles can be applied to the phenomenon how hatred is spread and how it impacts upon our global society the middle portion of the book moves beyond the broader questions of globalisation to jurisdictional examples of how globalization impacts upon our understanding of and also our responses to hate crime the chapters explore in greater detail what is happening around the world and how the international concepts of hate crime are being operationalised locally drawing out the themes of globalization and internationalization that are relevant to hate crime as evidenced by a number of jurisdictions from europe the us asia and africa the final part of the book concludes with an examination of the different ways in which hate speech and hate crime is being combatted globally international law internet regulation and the use of restorative practices are evaluated as methods of addressing hate based conflict with the discussions drawn from existing frameworks as well as exploring normative standards for future international efforts taken together these innovative and insightful contributions offer a timely investigation into the effects of hate crime offering an interdisciplinary approach to tackling what is now a global issue it will be of interest to scholars and students of criminology sociology and criminal justice as well as criminal justice practitioners police officers and policy makers
